CAR INDUSTRY ARMS ORDERS NEAR BILLION

AID PLEDGED ANEW TO PUSH DEFENSE PROGRAM

BY DAVID J. WILKIE
(Ass'd Press Automotive Editor)

Detroit, Oct.—The nation's automotive industry pledged anew today all its productive skill to the rapid fulfillment of the national defense program.

In closed meetings with William S. Knudsen of the national defense advisory commission, representatives of the airplane section of the commission and a group of army air corps officers, heads of the industry heard outlined a program of airplane parts production totaling $500,000,000.

Parts Standardized

Contracts for manufacture of these parts, intended for the construction of huge bomber planes, are to be allotted to the automobile industry between now and next spring, Knudsen said. With commitments already made for aviation engines, trucks, tanks, shells and other war material, they would bring to approximately $1,000,000,000 the total of contracts assigned to the automobile industry.

As a step toward mass production of aircraft, it is planned that the motorcar makers, cooperating with body, tool and die and parts and equipment manufacturers, shall make standardized airplane parts for final assembly in established aviation factories elsewhere.

Planes by Thousands

The discussions this morning, it was learned authoritatively, dealth mainly with the problem of production of set assemblies for 12,000 bombing planes. Some of these would be of the four motor type and others of the two motor variety.

It was explained the 12,000 figure did not necessarily indicate the exact volume of the contemplated aircraft procurement program but was used as a basis for putting the production of set assemblies on a volume basis.

Knudsen came to the meeting armed with blueprints and specifications of the parts needed. He said the gathering of top executives of the automobile industry,

EUROPE HEARS HINT OF PEACE

Petain In No Hurry to Put France On Dotted Line With Axis

(By The Associated Press)

Vichy, France, Oct. 25—Marshal Philippe Petain came pensively back tonight from his rendezvous with Adolf Hitler, and informed sources here considered the possibility the present negotiations between Germany, Italy and France may be preludes to an axis "peace drive."

Overtures for a cessation of hostilities might be launched through President Roosevelt, these sources said, after all the strings are tied together from the current or impending conversations between Petain, Hitler, Generalissimo Franco of Spain, Vice Premier Pierre Laval of France and Count Ciano of Italy.

(In Berlin, a spokesman said "the best answer to such reports is that attacks on England are continuing.")

Petain appeared to be in no hurry to put France on the dotted line in agreement with the axis. Laval went on to Paris without him after the Hitler talk of yesterday. (In Switzerland it was understood Laval already was negotiating with the Italians.) Laval is not expected back until tomorrow. Then he and Petain probably will make a joint report to the cabinet.

Officials who have been issuing statements to the effect that the future of France is bound up in the negotiations tried tonight to cool off public opinion. Now, they said, it appears the results will be less important than previously expected, and will settle only "immediate problems" between France and Germany.

WILLKIE FIRES MORE QUERIES AT ROOSEVELT

PRESIDENT INSISTS HE WILL STAY IN FOR 4 YEARS

(By The Associated Press)

President Roosevelt told a press conference yesterday (Friday) that "of course" he intended to serve the full presidential term of four years if he is re-elected.

Meanwhile, Wendell L. Willkie, the Republican presidential nominee, carrying his campaign to the Pennsylvania coal fields, announced he would answer the president's coming political speeches within 24 or 48 hours of their delivery.

And, at Jamestown, N. Y., en route to Wilkes-Barre, he said that since the president had "refrained from any statement of his belief about a third term," he wished Mr. Roosevelt would say "what he thinks about a fourth term" or a fifth.

Reporter Curious

At the president's press conference, a reporter, bearing in mind reports that if re-elected Mr. Roosevelt would resign later in favor of Henry A. Wallace, referred to the chief executive's recent statement that his objective in the next four years would be to make work for every young man and woman a "living fact." The reporter asked:

"Does this mean that, God willing, you intend to serve the full four-year term, if re-elected?"

"Of course," the president promptly responded, adding he was glad the correspondent had included the "God willing." Mr. Roosevelt volunteered permission for the reporters to quote him directly on the "of course."

Campaign Talk October 30

In Boston William H. Burke, Jr., chairman of the Massachusetts Democratic state committee, announced President Roosevelt would make one of his major campaign speeches here October 30.

Other campaign developments:

New York City: Edward J. Flynn, chairman of the Democratic national committee, asserted billboard slogans had appeared in Philadelphia, saying: "Save your church. Dictators hate religion. Vote straight Republican." He called upon Willkie to denounce the advertising and said it was intended to "stir up religious hatred."

Oregon, Ill.: Frank O. Lowden, former governor of Illinois, said: "We are drifting rapidly toward war. This terrible calamity, in my opinion, can safely be averted only by the election of Wendell Willkie."

More Importance Given Air Corps As Military Arm

BY EDWARD E. BOMAR

Washington, Oct. 25, (AP)—The army clothed the air corps with importance in the military setup today by making its head a deputy chief of the war department general staff.

Major General Henry H. Arnold was advanced to the newly-created general staff post, while Major General Delos C. Emmons, commander of the mobile general headquarters air force, was promoted to lieutenant general and made co-equal in rank with commanders of the nation's four field armies.

There was no hint of intent, however, to follow the example of Germany, Great Britain and most other powers by making the air corps an entirely separate military arm. Both the army and navy have opposed such a move, which has been advocated by many fliers and others.

Now Fighting Force

The GHQ air force, which includes virtually all the army's aerial striking weapons, was made responsible to the new army general headquarters like the land forces. Previously it was responsible to the air corps chief.

Established in 1935, the GHQ force for the last 18 months has had to help train new fliers. The war department said "the time is now arrived" for a return to the status of a "tactical fighting force."

Major General George H. Brett was made acting chief of the air corps to succeed Arnold. As such he will have charge of training, procurement of planes and many activities other than GHQ operations.

JAPAN MENACES U.S.A. EMBASSY

Aerial Explosives Drop All Around Building At Chungking

Chungking, Oct. 25, (AP)—The United States embassy barely escaped complete destruction today when 10 bombs were dropped by three groups of Japanese planes around the embassy compound and its vicinity.

One bomb loosed a huge boulder which rolled down the Yangtze river bank and smashed into the U. S. gunboat Tutuila, anchored along the south bank near the embassy.

The gunboat, however, was barely damaged, and the embassy escaped harm.

The raiders came over at lunchtime in one of their frequent raids on this much-battered provisional Chinese capital, sinking and smashing a large number of river junks and doing some scattered damage to shops and dwellings in the city.

About 75 casualties were caused on the river, but most of the people in Chungking had taken refuge and there were few killed and injured.

A British steamer was sunk and the Canadian mission was badly shaken.

ITALY BOMBS LONDON FROM NEW AIRBASE

MUSSOLINI OFFERS HAND IN SIEGE OF BRITAIN

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rome, Oct. 25.—Mussolini has set up a "tremendous" air base of his own on the French side of the English Channel, informed Italians said tonight, and his fliers already are splashing the streets of London with bombs marked "Made in Italy."

This disclosure (coincident with a German command announcement that Italians, for the first time, accurately raided "the east of the British Isle" from their own base yesterday), was followed by indications of intense activity on the Italian front in Egypt.

There were predictions in Rome that the Fascist forces, now entrenched 70 miles or more within Egypt's desert border, might renew their offensive this week-end.

Exploits Praised

Fascist informants gave out an impressive word picture of Italy's channel air base and the press proudly recounted the first exploits of the Italian raiders.

These sources said Il Duce himself took the initiative in the matter and offered his air force to intensify the long German air siege of Britain.

The German high command accepted quickly, it was related, and thousands of carloads of equipment and supplies were shipped to the base. Italian pilots, meanwhile, ferried plane after plane to the base from Italy.

Petain Due Soon

General Rino Corso Fougier, a Corsican who was an Italian ace in Spain, is in command.

Unofficial sources indicated Foreign Minister Count Ciano, or even Mussolini himself, may meet Marshal Petain, France's chief of state, and his vice premier, Pierre Laval, within the next few days.

It was supposed the meeting would conform to the example set by Hitler and take place on the frontier of Italian - occupied France, a narrow strip in the Alpes Maritimes.

Four Senators Book Talks In Michigan During Coming Week

Detroit, Oct. 25 (AP)—Four United States senators—two to plead for President Roosevelt's re-election and two to stump for Wendell L. Willkie—are scheduled to speak in Michigan next week.

Senator Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky, senate majority leader, will spend Tuesday in Michigan with appearances scheduled at a Kalamazoo luncheon, a Jackson labor rally and a Lansing evening rally.

Senator Lister Hill (D-Ala.), who made a nominating speech for President Roosevelt at the Chicago convention, will speak in Flint Thursday evening.

Willkie's boosters will appear Wednesday. Henry Cabot Lodge (R-Mass.) is booked for a labor address in Detroit. Edward R. Burke (D-Neb.), anti-new dealer, will address a Detroit luncheon under the auspices of the Michigan Willkie Democrats, headed by former Governor William A. Comstock.

Lansing, Oct. 25, (AP)—Refusal of the federal surplus commodities to purchase surplus grapes in Michigan on grounds that growers refused to sell for less than $28 a ton was announced today by the state department of agriculture.

Waves Of 20 To 100 Planes Pound England

(By The Associated Press)

London, Oct. 25—The axis air force shuttled bombs into London with ominous intensity tonight after a day of ferocious big formation raids which left a trail of destruction from one end of London to the other.

Met by the thunderous roar of the massed artillery of London's defenses, some of the night raiders dropped flares and flame bombs, while others dived on their targets in one district despite an almost continuous blaze of fire.

Stretcher parties sped through the streets of one populous shopping district as the raid entered its third hour.

Other raiders were reported thrusting at Wales, southwest England, Liverpool and Scotland.

Backed by a muster of Italian planes on the German-held coast and coinciding with an apparent approaching end to Adolf Hitler's mysterious diplomatic journeying, the Nazis sent more planes at London than in any day recently.

Mostly fighters, they came in huge formations of 20 to 100, flying nearly six miles high.

They dumped loads of high explosives into London's streets during two morning rush-hour raids and then returned for long sieges in the afternoon.

The surprise morning attacks blew to pieces two street cars, damaged three others, and wrecked a bus when a string of bombs fell in a crowded thoroughfare.

More than a score of persons were killed and injured, and the street was left a tangle of wreckage from blasted store fronts and vehicles.

Other bombs smashed shops and flats, and left streets strewn with injured. Civilians joined the the regular air raid precaution workers in first aid work. Women tore off their dresses to bandage the wounded.

The air ministry said twelve raiders were brought down, against eight British machines and three pilots lost.

SHELLS TRADED OVER CHANNEL

Big Guns Light Up Skies In Prolonged Battle; Convoy Attacked

Dover, England, Oct. 26 (Saturday) (AP) — British and German long-range artillery fought a prolonged battle across the English Channel last night and early today, and British bombers violently assaulted the Nazi-held French coast.

It was one of the heaviest and longest engagements of the war—lighting up the skies on both sides of the Dover Strait in a continuous rumble of heavy explosions that was like a thunderstorm.

The action began yesterday afternoon in a British bombardment of a small German convoy in the channel. German guns answered with a like bombardment of a British convoy, the RAF attacked and it became, then, a tremendous general engagement involving two heavy batteries on the German side.

Early this morning the British convoy still was under fire in the channel, and the British guns were pounding the German batteries.

While the artillery duelled about dusk, German planes launched a mass attack upon the British convoy and its barrage balloons. There was a sharp battle, as every ship returned the fire with all guns. British fighter planes joined the engagement.

UNION LEADER IS BACKER OF GOP NOMINEE

DEMOCRATIC GROUP SPONSORS TALK, PAYS $45,000

Washington, Oct. 25, (AP)—John L. Lewis tonight announced his support for Wendell L. Willkie for president, and said that if Willkie should be defeated he would retire as president of the C.I.O.

"It is obvious," the labor leader said in a radio address from his headquarters at the United Mine Workers building," that President Roosevelt will not be re-elected for the third term, unless he has the overwhelming support of the men and women of labor. If he is, therefore, re-elected, it will mean that the members of the Congress of Industrial Organizations have rejected my advice and recommendation.

No Superman Needed

"I will accept the result as being the equivalent of a vote of no confidence, and will retire as president of the Congress of Industrial Organizations, at its convention in November.

"This action will save our great movement, composed of my leadership during the ensuing reign of President Roosevelt."

The first, he said, is that his "motivation and objective" is "war." Of the third term issue, he said: "America needs no superman."

Quoting from a speech he made in January of this year saying that a coalition had been formed between labor and the administration, and that a "political coalition presupposes a post-election good faith between the coalition interests," he added:

Party Broke Faith

"'The Democratic party and its leadership have not preserved that faith.'" Then, departing from the quotation of the previous speech he said it had never been refuted and that "there is no spokesman in the Democratic party, or in the Roosevelt administration intellectually capable of this task."

Indicting the administration for failing to solve the unemployment problem, he said it was "trying to create prosperity by the making of guns and lethal weapons." This, he added, points to increased volume of production but "forgets to state that the productivity of the individual worker has vastly increased since 1929, and that increased volume does not correspondingly mean increased employment of workers." There are, he said, 9,115,000 men and women in America "still unemployed," and the national defense program will still leave 5,000,000 out of work.

He questioned where the country would sell its goods when the whose vision had made the great project possible.

ON 362 STATIONS

New York, Oct. 25, (AP)—The National Committee of Democrats-for-Willkie announced tonight it was sponsoring and paying approximately $45,000 for tonight's radio speech by John L. Lewis, C.I.O. president.

Alan Valentine, executive director of the committee, said the speech would be carried over 362 stations of the three national networks.

The announcement was released by Leo Casey, the committee's director of publicity, 90 minutes before Lewis was to announce his stand in the presidential contest.

NOTHING TO LOSE

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Oct. 25 (AP)—Declaring it is time to get "new management" in government, Wendell L. Willkie asked tonight:

"What have you got to lose in making a change?"

"I ask you to put me to work," the Republican presidential nominee said. "I know that this job (of government management) can be done."

In an address prepared for an audience in the heart of the anthracite country, Willkie continued:

"Here you have a management in the office of your government which has had a fair trial of eight years and in all that time it has been unable to solve the problem of the farmer, revive industry, or provide our people with jobs. And now that management tells us that it can't be done.

"Under such circumstances, what have you got to lose in making a change? Isn't it about time to get management that believes in the future of this country and believes that the job can be done.

Asserting that "we want to

Engineer Killed In Florida Wreck

New Smyrna Beach, Fla., Oct. 25 (AP)—Engineer R. L. Montaigne, about 65, was killed and a negro fireman was seriously injured late today in the derailment of a northbound Florida east coast passenger train four miles south of here.

The boiler of the locomotive exploded, and Montaigne was severely scalded.

First reports said two passenger cars also left the track, and an ambulance was called for one woman passenger who was said to have suffered a back injury.

The explosion of the boiler wrecked the locomotive, parts of it being scattered along the track.

The fireman, identified by police here as Luke Johnson, suffered bad scalds and was taken to the railroad's hospital as St. Augustine.

Green, AFL Leader, Backs Vandenberg Because Of Record

Grand Rapids, Mich., Oct. 25 (AP)—Because he has "consistently voted favorably on measures of interest to labor," Michigan's Republican U. S. Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg has the endorsement of William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, for re-election.

Endorsement was expressed in a letter from Green addressed to the senator and released today by Vandenberg's headquarters. It said in part:

"During your entire incumbency you have consistently voted favorably on measures of interest to labor, and in addition you have been helpful to the American Federation of Labor in committees and on the floor of the senate.

"For these reasons I am pleased to recommend to the membership of the American Federation of Labor in the state of Michigan that they and their friends aid in your re-election."

GOVERNOR SAYS HE'S CONFIDENT

Grave Issues Confront Voters This Year, Dickinson Avers

Lansing, Oct. 25 (AP)—Governor Dickinson declared in a campaign address prepared for delivery tonight (Michigan network at 8:15 p. m.) that "the major question in the coming election will be the broad one of whether we want an America and a Michigan which will proceed in the manner which has made us free and great."

Dickinson urged all electors to vote, declaring "the issues before you this year are grave."

The governor said he was placing his cause in the hands of the voters with confidence.

"We promised you good government, honestly inspired, and we believe we have given it to you," he said. "We promised to set the financial house of the taxpayers in order, and we have done so. We promised to bring peace to labor, and to encourage jobs rather than unemployment, and we have done so.

"It is all there for you to see, an open record. We have not been swerved by political influence nor anything else. There has been only one test of what to do—and that has been 'what is the right thing?' To that policy we pledge our continued allegiance."

Dickinson said all members of the Republican state ticket were well qualified for the offices they sought.

"All have had honorable careers," he continued, "and all know the jobs for which they have been selected."

A total of 813 newspapers supported Willkie, 289 were for Roosevelt and 171 were neutral, the magazine said.

Berlin Raided For 3 Hours; Death Toll Heavy; Children Moved Out Of Capital

(By The Associated Press)

London, Oct. 25 — British bombs exploded today from Berlin to Rotterdam—from Hamburg to the west French coast and on war supply depots in far interior Germany—in one of the longest and most violent counter-attacks yet delivered in six weeks of almost endless aerial attrition.

The attack on Berlin—the 23rd of the war—was declared by the air ministry to have gone on intermittently for nearly three hours, the raiding pilots cutting down through great cloud banks 4,000 to 12,000 feet deep.

Two railway stations—the Putlitz-Strasse and Lehrter stations were hit hard for the second night in a row, the ministry said, and a "huge fire" set off down below guided squadron after squadron of planes which swept over the city.

"Extensive damage," was claimed.

(In Berlin the German high command announced an unstated number of dead and injured in Berlin and Hamburg; said there was fire and property damage in the harbor and elsewhere in Hamburg; spoke of damage to houses and a lumber yard in Berlin.

(The German wireless broadcast that the number killed in Berlin was "extremely high," and accused the RAF of "indiscriminate bombing of the German civilian population."

(It was announced in Berlin that 62,000 of the city's school children under 14 years old had been removed from the capital because of recurrent British bombing; that 42,000 had been taken from Hamburg and that an additional 30,000 would be removed from Berlin.

AUTO INJURES MOTHER, SON

Mrs. Ralph Flath and Son Jerry, 3, Bark River, In Hospital

Mrs. Ralph Flath of Bark River, and her son, Jerry, 3 years old, were in St. Francis hospital last night, both with possibly serious injuries after having been struck by a car on Ludington street near Eleventh, at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

The child was reported to be most seriously hurt. He suffered fractures of three ribs on the left side and possible injury to lung tissue. Mrs. Flath was cut and bruised and may have a pelvic bone fracture, the attending physician said. X-ray examination will be made.

Mrs. Mary C. Massa of Norway was driver of the car. She was traveling east on Ludington street, halted when she saw the mother and son starting across the street about 50 feet west of the Eleventh street intersection, then resumed normal speed when she thought they had stopped to wait, police reported.

The driver stopped within 10 feet, police said. Both mother and son were knocked to the pavement. Mrs. Massa was not held by police.

This was the third injury accident in Escanaba in 10 days. One man was killed while walking on the highway October 16 and two were injured when their car left the highway early Thursday morning.

Spencer DeMoss of Brampton, injured Thursday, was recovering satisfactorily last night, as were Paul Schroeder, 2125 Fifth avenue south, and Wallace Bridges, 609 North Eighteenth street, who were not seriously hurt when the light truck they were riding in crashed into a train at a crossing in Rapid River Thursday night.

The condition of Russell Sargent, 32, of Spalding, casualty of a train-auto crash at Spalding Wednesday morning, was reported critical at the hospital last night.

CRASH AT NAHMA

A sedan driven by Edward Gauin of Nahma and a truck driven by Dave Weiberg of Nahma, crashed head-on near the Nahma golf course at 7 o'clock last night. Both cars were badly smashed but no one was seriously hurt.

Weiberg was headed south and Gauin north. Apparently Weiberg lost control after rounding a curve, Undersheriff John Frederickson reported after investigation. Weiberg will be charged with reckless driving, he said.

Jeanette Adams and Carol Wawirka of Escanaba, riding with Gauin, received minor bruises which were treated by a Nahma doctor.

New Scout Troop Begun In Schaffer

Twelve boys were awarded tenderfoot badges at a candle-light investiture ceremony Thursday night which featured presentation of a charter to the new Boy Scout troop at Schaffer. The ceremony was held at the Schaffer school and the troop is sponsored by the school PTA.

Scout leader Stanley Huntington presented the charter to Thomas LaFleur, chairman of the committee. Fred Morin is scoutmaster while Leo J. Guindon is member of the committee.

Boys who received their first badges at the meeting were James and Theodore Cavadeas, Patton Daigeneault, Paul Degeneff, Ed Derocher, Henry Guindon, Gerald Guenette, Jack LaFleur, Edward LaVigne, James LaVesque, Arnold Michel and Melvin Racicot.

FORD MIGHT BUILD PLANT

Processing of Soy Bean In Upper Peninsula Considered

Establishment of a soy bean processing plant in Dickinson county is a possibility, if the required number of county farms will start growing the crop, according to a report of the Ford Motor company, emphasizing that activity.

Experiments conducted by Ford experts have proved that the crop will grow and ripen in this region. More than 400 acres of beans planted this year on Ford lands in the county produced a sizeable crop.

At Kingsford, 214 acres have been harvested, 110 at Randville and the same acreage at Gladstone.

For many years past the Ford company has experimented with several northern varieties of the bean. The Mandarin variety, an oil bean imported from China, through Ontario, Canada, has proved the best and earliest variety for this country, and most of the Ford acreage is devoted to this type.

Other Varieties

Five other varieties, all edible, were tried this year, namely Jocun, Hokkaido, F-36, Funk's and Willomi. None of these, however, were wholly successful. Mandarin beans are producing from 20 to 28 bushels to the acre.

The soy bean has become one of the nation's greatest industry crops, according to the report. Oil from the bean has a number of industrial uses. Automobile wheels are made of soy bean composition, and by-products are used for automobile parts. Meal residue, after the oil has been extracted, is a cattle feed high in protein content, and is used by many farmers to balance dairy rations.

Rotation System

The Ford company uses a three-year rotation system on its farms. Two crops are plowed under in one year to provide humus for the soil. Rye is planted in the fall and plowed under in early June, when it is over a foot high. The land is then seeded to soy beans, using a tall, fast growing variety, the Illini or the Manchu. In the fall, before the first frost, the crops is again plowed under, adding large amounts of nitrogen and humus to the soil and building up the land to withstand later dry spells.

About 125 acres of soy beans were plowed under at Kingsford this year, while at Randville, 35 acres were fallowed. Fifty acres were planted with potatoes on newly cleared land, then ten of another 80 acres of land cleared was given over to fall rye. At Gladstone most of the farm was planted with oats.

Rushton Eminently Qualified

IN the tumult and the shouting of a presidential campaign Republicans of Delta county and the peninsula are likely to allow the importance of the national battle to overshadow their interest in their own state, district and county tickets.

Naturally, first consideration and the most concerted effort of sound thinking electors must be centered in the election of Wendell L. Willkie as president of the United States, but there exists just as great a need for the preservation of a sound and honest government in the state of Michigan.

That end can only be served by the reelection of Governor Dickinson and the entire Republican state ticket, for it is the possession by Gov. Dickinson of those homely virtues of thorough honesty and profound respect for all religious belief and the application of those principles to the affairs of Michigan, that has won the respect and the admiration of a great majority of the people in the state.

And upper peninsula Republicans have an added incentive to make certain the free election of Governor Dickinson and his cabinet of officers, because of the fact that an outstanding Republican of the peninsula, Atty H. J. Rushton, of Escanaba, is Governor Dickinson's candidate for attorney general.

Mr. Rushton's long years of service for the state, first as state senator, as sales tax administrator and in various other capacities, have made of him one of the best known and most thoroughly liked citizens of the peninsula.

In Delta county, where Mr. Rushton has spent the greater portion of his life and where his honesty and integrity have become a watchword with the people who know him best, he is recognized as eminently fitted to have a part in a state administration that is dedicated to the singular purpose of providing for the people of Michigan, a thoroughly honest state government.

Here Lies the Difference

WE are against Mr. Roosevelt because—
He never has shed a spoonful of sweat at manual labor, or known the fear of losing a job that meant his bread and butter, or worried over his inability to put his children through school, or suffered the embarrassment of having to wear shiny pants and shabby shoes.

He is a politician—a master politician—a ruthless politician; and expert politics IS A DANGER TO THE LIFE OF ANY DEMOCRACY. Adolf Hitler by his own admission is a politician of that kind. * * *

Apparently he resents deeply and forever any personal opposition. The Supreme Court differed with him and he called the justices decrepit old men and tried by every means he knew to take their judicial powers away from them. When outstandingly able men of his own party, such as Senator Gillette of Iowa, opposed some of his policies, he sought to "purge" them back to private life. * * *

He is of course densely ignorant concerning the organized labor movement—its ideals, its objectives and its needs. He proved this when he appointed as Secretary of Labor not a two-fisted man who understood labor but a timid, vague, middle-aged female. * * *

He does not keep his word. His public utterances abound in promises solemnly made—"it is my pledge and promise to you"—that later have been broken without apology and without explanation.

And finally—though in truth this is our main reason—We oppose Mr. Roosevelt for the same reason that Al Smith and Carter Glass and Burt Wheeler and John Garner and a host of sincere Democrats oppose him: BECAUSE HE DEMANDS A THIRD TERM. * * *

We are for Mr. Willkie because—
* * *He has lived and worked in many States, and at many occupations. He was born a "common" child, of "common" parents in a "common" town, and all his life he has been in contact with the common people.

He worked with his hands to buy his food and clothing and to educate himself, even as you and I did.

He is no politician, and THANK GOD FOR THAT!

He has a keen and practical mind, else he would not have risen so high on merit alone; and that talent is sorely needed by any Chief Executive of this Nation.

He surely is an honest man, upright in his dealings, for the utmost efforts of his opponents in this campaign have failed to unearth anything in his career to his serious discredit. * * *

To sum up: He is common; he is thoroughly and typically American; he has a constructive mind—a thinker and a doer; he cherishes no hates; he apparently has no personal vanity.

Restricting Competition

MOVES to curb competition are seldom beneficial to the consumer.

State Ballot No. 4, the November referendum on the 1939 dental act, is condemned by the Adcraft Club of Detroit for several significant reasons:

1. Since Michigan already has a model act prohibiting false and misleading advertising, the dental anti-price act is termed both "unnecessary and undesirable."

2. Since the act is only one of many similar bills favored by minority groups, it "simply opens the way and offers encouragement to action by various pressure groups attempting to restrict competition."

H. M. Hastings, secretary-manager of the Adcraft Club, points out:

"Our club campaigned for the adoption of the 'model advertising statute' section No. 33 of the Criminal Code of 1931 which, if enforced, is adequate for the protection of both the public and legitimate advertising practitioners, whose interests after all are mutual."

If dentists can restrict competitors from telling the truth in advertising, and truthful information is vital to consumers, then other groups will seek to restrict competitors in the same way.

What is to prevent, once this precedent is established in Michigan, a minority group of shoe-dealers from inducing the legislature to restrict completition by forbidding the advertising of shoe prices or the showing of a shoe or slipper or boot in their advertising?

Why should not a group of grocers, encouraged by this non-competition act, get together and say: "We want to eliminate competition too. We want to ban grocery prices?"

The barbers even sought in 1939, in the name of "ethics," to restrict competition with a bill to forbid advertising by barber poles!

Where will this thing end?

It is about high time that Mr. and Mrs. Michigan Consumer say "No" to this monopolistic trend. State Ballot No. 4 affords the opportunity.

Get Out the Vote

OUT of 80,528,000 potential voters in the United States, 60,576,979 are registered and qualified to vote, but it is estimated that only 49,719,200 will go to the polls on Nov. 5 to exercise their duties and privileges as citizens.

However, the outpouring of voters expected this year represents a sizable increase over the 45,647,117 figure in 1936 and the total of 39,816,552 in 1932. The spectacular campaign being waged by Wendell Willkie has given new hope to the Republicans, and accounts, no doubt, for the greater public interest in the coming election.

A heavy vote at the polls on Nov. 5 can be taken as a good indication that democracy is alive in this country. The fact that the right of suffrage has been taken away from millions in dictator-ruled countries has resulted in a deeper appreciation of the blessings enjoyed by those people who have the good fortune to be American citizens.

But still there are too many people staying away from the polls on election day, and plain indifference is the principal reason. Many persons think that a single vote will not have any appreciable effect upon the outcome of the election, little realizing that the total of the stay-at-home votes can be considerable. If every citizen does his duty by going to the polls on election day, there can be no better guarantee that the democratic privileges he or she now enjoys will be retained.

IMMIGRANT BIOGRAPHY
By ARNOLD MULDER
(Grand Rapids Press)

Last year Louis Adamic, author of "My America" and many other books, sent out a "broadside" to thousands of persons interested in the immigrant, asking for facts about them. He announced at the time that he would use the answers he received to his questions in writing a book under the title, "Nation of Nations," that was scheduled for publication about 1942.

Mr. Adamic has been better than his promise. Because of the cooperation of the Carnegie foundation it has become possible for the author to give to the public at this time, not indeed the complete projected work, but at least a portion of it that may be regarded as the first chapter of the whole.

That first chapter is more than a chapter in bulk; it is a hefty volume of 350 large pages. The new book is called "From Many Lands" and while it is a complete unit in itself Mr. Adamic repeats the promise that it will form a part of a larger work under the title of Whitman's phrase, "A Nation of Nations." Whereas last year we were promised a single book under that caption, apparently the project has become more ambitious, for now we are told that "From Many Lands" is "the first volume of several" to appear under the broader title.

"From Many Lands" is quite accurately what the title implies. Mr. Adamic has dug out the life stories of all sorts and conditions of persons who come from all sorts of places all over the world to find a home or a sanctuary, or both, in America. Under Adamic's deft handling they do not remain despised immigrants but are translated into personalities, often personalities that have become familiar to the general American public. Thus of direct interest to Michigan is the story of "Ma" and "Pa" Karas, citizens of Escanaba, a story that Adamic went to that Michigan town to dig out and that serves as a symbol of the life of thousands like them. There are many such histories in "From Many Lands" and many nationalities are represented.

There are immigrants from Croatia, others from Bohemia, still others from unhappy Finland. Pomeranians and Greeks and Italians and Hollanders and Germans and Mexicans and Japanese—they are all there, not in terms of sociological statistics but in those of living human beings. There is sociology in the book, of course, a great deal of it, and the whole idea of the book is impregnated with sociological implications, but it is sociology rescued from dead facts and figures and made animate in the manner in which a skillful novelist can make sociology live.

* * *

Mr. Adamic's thought is that this stream of human wealth that has been flowing across the Atlantic toward America for more than a century, and that is still trickling toward us today in a somewhat thinner stream, is the most precious wealth we have. He is not sentimental about it in the manner of the "Melting Pot" orators. He recognizes freely that in some instances the Melting Pot has been corroded in spots by the destructive acid of the brew poured into it. But on the whole these immigrant lives that have been added to the American blood stream have been life giving.

Mexico, D. F., Mexico—Good American dollars are helping Hitler with his anti-American propaganda and general Fifth Column work in Mexico.

Here's how:

A large part of American goods sold in Mexico today are sold through local distributors or jobbers. Many of the best-established of these distributing and jobbing firms are run by Germans.

As the American goods filter through them on the way to the Mexican consumer, dollar profits rub off. This is all very legal, and strictly business, of course.

But all German firms in Mexico are "touched" regularly for their contributions to the Nazi machine. Many of the owners are Mexican citizens by naturalization. Some are even anti-Hitler.

Pressure is such that none escape the touch. And the more American goods they sell the more they have to pay.

—NAZI ADVERTISERS INFLUENCE PRESS—

Even neater is the scheme by which American dollars are made to corrupt the Mexican press for Germany.

The American manufacturer who hopes to open up a market in Mexico needs an advertising fund, as anywhere. Naturally, his distributor dispenses that fund locally.

In many cases in Mexico that distributor is a German. Even if not, the distributing firm may have a German as advertising manager or in some key post. All of them meet together and report on the advertising at their disposal.

Then the NSDAP (Nazi Party) representative takes the whole sheaf of advertising money, goes to a paper which is not too firm of principle, and says, "Boys, this money is yours if we get printed the kind of news we want." No sooner said, in too many cases, than done.

These financial tricks, whereby American business is forced to kick itself in the pants, highlight the weak spot of the American position in Mexico. It is easier for American producers to reach the Mexican market through such well-established German houses. They are admittedly efficient and strong.

—MAJORITY OF IMPORTS COME FROM U. S.—

Those acquainted with the Mexican commercial picture fear that, when the war is over and especially if Germany wins, all such local houses under German influence will kick out the American goods and substitute German goods for them. This would leave the Americans faced with the prospect of building up distributing organizations from scratch or of gradually receding from the Mexican market.

Mexico City is in the midst of a construction boom. The population of the capital is nearing 2,000,000, and during the past two years whole suburban sections, some of them very modern and beautiful, have sprung up.

Great buildings for both government and private offices are springing up in the downtown section. It is freely suggested that people with money prefer to have it in tangible buildings, fearing money inflation may result from Mexico's present unsatisfactory fiscal condition.

Some of the building, however, is undoubtedly made necessary by the swarms of people drawn to the capital in recent years, who must live somewhere.

Right now the American position in Mexican trade is excellent. In the first quarter of this year 75 per cent of Mexico's imports came from the United States. This table shows the increasing share of the United States in such trade:

	1938	1939	1st Quarter 1940
U. S.	57%	67.2%	75 %
Japan	2%	1.2%	1.6%
Germany	19%	12.7%	2.3%

That would make it appear that the United States is doing all right in Mexico commercially—and so it is—now. But the drop in both German and Japanese figures is due to war conditions.

Purchases from the United States skyrocket because that is the only place goods can be had. The small German figure represents goods brought all the way across Siberia and the Pacific.

Hollywood Column

Hollywood—You're sitting in a theater. Stage curtains are closed; lights are still bright; last-minute arrivals are scuttling crabwise to their seats. An orchestra begins to tune up.

You don't see any musicians but you figure there must be some, because the tuning sounds come from different parts of the stage. This is a trick, though, because when the house lights dim and the curtains part you realize you're watching a motion picture of orchestra members taking their places. They're deliberate about it, just as they are in any auditorium. You view them rather dimly, mostly in purplish silhouette.

Presently a man halts in midscreen and begins to speak to the audience. He says his name is Deems Taylor and that in behalf of Walt Disney, Leopold Stokowski and the Philadelphia Symphony he welcomes you to a performance of "Fantasia."

In his easy fashion he goes on to say it is unlike anything you have attended—that it is a concert of fine music complemented by pictures. The pictures, he explains, are not necessarily stories—they may be designs and forms inspired by the music; they are the sort of images which might run through your mind if you just sat and listened to Stokowski and his men.

* * *

VARIED MUSIC

Then you see the conductor. He raps with his baton and begins Bach's Toccata and Fugue in D Minor. The orchestra dissolves from view. The interpretive, impressionistic part of the picture begins. There are eight musical selections spaced by glimpses of the orchestra and brief announcements by Taylor.

The material ranges from the reverent Ave Maria to the ludicrous Dance of the Hours, the latter burlesqued by a jungle ballet of hippos, elephants, crocodiles and ostriches. It goes from Beethoven's Pastoral, garnished with Disneyesque centaurs and centaurettes and fauns and cupids, to Stravinsky's Rite of Spring, a starkly primitive thing used to tell of the creation of the world, and of the life development from single cells to the age of the great reptiles. Another eerie and rather terrifying number is Moussorgsky's Night on Bald Mountain. "Fantasia," as a whole, is not a program for the kiddies.

With ordinary equipment for sound recording and reproduction, the enterprise probably would have been just a movie novelty with the music of no more consequence than the score of the average picture. But "Fantasia" will be a musical sensation, and the visual part actually will be secondary. The dimensional, directional sound developed by Disney engineers and RCA compares with the best reproduction now available in about the same way modern Technicolor surpasses Thomas Edison's flickering kinetoscope.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY PEARSON AND ALLEN

Cleveland — Inside reason why Roosevelt is making his special campaign trip to this key industrial center is contained in these two sharply contrasting sets of figures:

In 1936 he carried Cleveland by 184,000. As of today, local polls still show him leading—but only by 60,000 to 80,000 votes. This is not enough to offset the big Willkie majorities sure to come from the rural districts.

So unless the President can stoke up his vote in Cleveland and the other industrial centers of Ohio, he can kiss the Buckeye State goodbye.

Today the odds in Ohio favor Willkie. However, the battling is so close that Republican managers privately hold their breaths. In secret estimates, they figure Willkie will skin through by from 50,000 to 75,000.

This, interestingly enough, is just about the margin which the Democrats privately expect to win. During Roosevelt's Dayton-Columbus trip several years ago, Ohio Democratic leaders told him their private polls showed a 50,000 to 60,000 margin.

So with Ohio casting over 3,000,000 votes this year, these estimates show how close the boys are figuring and how uncertain is the Buckeye State.

—BURTON IN—

No matter which candidate wins the presidential battle, one thing is certain regarding the local battle! Harold H. Burton, Cleveland's reform Republican Mayor, is the sure-shot winner of the senatorial toga relinquished by Democratic "Honest Vic" Donahey.

Burton is making a runaway race and will lead the rest of the GOP ticket by a wide margin. His Democratic opponent, John McSweeney, hasn't even been able to get started.

Burton is a man to watch. For if the 1944 Republican presidential race is open to all comers, he will be one of the leading contestants. Burton has White House ambitions and has demonstrated that in his quiet way he usually gets what he goes after. He will be no "ball of fire" in the Senate, because he is not that type. But the Senate will know he is there.

Honest, able and courageous, he cleaned up Cleveland's once notorious underworld so thoroughly that the city now has one of the best police records in the country. Although once a corporation lawyer, Burton has greatly expanded the municipal power plant, despite the bitter opposition of private utilities. He has also defended WPA and is now engaged in a hot fight with the street car company over a franchise renewal.

Ohio's GOP machine didn't like the idea of Burton being the party's candidate for Senator. Particularly opposed was Governor John Bricker, with whom Burton had a sulphurous battle over relief last spring. Furthermore, Bricker has White House ambitions of his own.

But in the primary Burton bowled over the machine like ten pins, and the boys hastened to make peace. Now all is harmonious and he's their fair-haired hero—for the present.

—WILLKIE'S GODFATHER—

Elwood, Ind., may be the proud birthplace of Wendell Willkie, but Portsmouth, O., claims the title of godfather. Reason is that five years ago a number of Portsmouth folks aided in saving Willkie from what might have been a fatal airplane crash.

Willkie had been summoned to a business conference in New Orleans, had chartered a plane at Newark, N. J., to take him to Cincinnati and catch a southbound train. Over West Virginia his plane became lost in a severe storm and the pilot began radioing nearby airports to get his bearings.

He was unable to get any response. Finally, around 7 P. M., the plane flew over Portsmouth and began circling to attract attention. L. W. Burns, local newsman, noticed the ship and notified Fire Chief Leedom, who rushed an emergency squad with portable lights to illuminate the town's airfield.

A number of residents also drove out to add the headlights of their cars for this purpose. With these emergency means the field was sufficiently lighted so the big ship was able to land safely.

In order not to alarm his wife, Willkie did not disclose his identity at the time. Later it was revealed that he and an attorney of Commonwealth and Southern, which he then headed, were the passengers during the scary experience.

Adolf shouts that he wants to build a new state, but he doesn't care to do it peace by peace.

The body is said to be susceptible to 1600 different diseases, nearly any or all of which can be brought out by a draft.

THE SPARE ROOM

Sometimes it's in the attic,
Sometimes in the hall,
Sometimes in the parlor,
Sometimes not at all,
But always there's a corner,
Wove on friendship's loom,
A-special for the comp'ny,
Called the best spare room.

Sometimes hot as pepper,
Sometimes, once or twice,
You'll get frozen into somethin'
Like a dish of orange-ice.
Sometimes you'll hear the blizzard
Whistle through the cracks,
And sometimes 'twould melt the varnish
On your grandpa's battle-ax.

But if the room is scorchin',
And if the springs are weak,
And if sometimes you're frozen
Till your lips refuse to speak,
You'd be glad to stay forever
And to pillow on a broom,
For you're vistin' friends and sleepin'
In the best spare room.

Death of Grondin To Be Investigated By Coroner's Jury

Menominee—A coroner's inquest into the death of Harry Grondin, 19, of Spalding, who died Wednesday a half hour after the truck in which he was a passenger was struck by a Chicago & North Western passenger train at Spalding, will be held early next week, Prosecuting Atty. Michael J. Anuta said. A six-man jury was picked yesterday and viewed the scene of the accident.

Russell Sargent, 32, Spalding coal dealer for whom Grondin was employed, and driver of the truck, was reported today to be still in a critical condition in St. Francis' hospital at Escanaba. He suffered a skull fracture, two scalp gashes and cuts and bruises to face and body.

Sargent and Grondin were delivering a load of coal at the time of the accident. Joseph Faber, fireman on the train, told sheriff deputies that he noticed the truck approaching the crossing at a slow rate of speed.

Witnesses See Crash

"I thought the truck was going to stop until it was about 25 feet from the crossing when I realized it wasn't," Faber said. "I called to the engineer to throw on the emergency brakes. The train whistle was blown before we reached the crossing and was still blowing when the engine hit the truck."

A. P. Baker, engineer on the train, said he applied the brakes but did not see the truck until the crash because he was sitting on the opposite side of the engine cab.

Arthur Perket, Spalding mail carrier who was at the mail carrier's shelter house to pick up the mail after it was dropped from the passing train, told deputies that he saw the truck approaching the crossing.

Truck Tossed 75 Feet

"The train was about 250 feet away when I noticed the truck near the tracks," Perket said. "I thought it would cross in time, but it was going too slowly. The passengers in the truck appeared to be looking in the opposite direction."

Mrs. Xavier Labre, operator of the Spalding store nearby, and Helen Bouty also witnessed the crash.

The impact tossed the truck about 75 feet, literally broke the truck in two pieces and scattered the ton and a half of coal on the truck for more than 100 yards along the railway right-of-way. The train traveled 330 feet before coming to a stop.

Hospital

Tom Smenderovan, North Escanaba, is a medical patient.

Tom Krassick, Wells, was admitted for treatment.

Patients dismissed are Edward Guerton, Mrs. Henry Moreau and baby, Arthur Crose, Mrs. Marvin Olive, Mrs. Don Couillard, Muriel Godin and Lawrence LaFave.

The whole purpose of existence is growth. Life is dynamic, not static. It is ever moving forward not standing still. To cease to grow is to perish. To be merely good leads to stagnation. Many individuals may be classed as good, but good for what, is the question they need to ask themselves.

ENFORCE LAWS, MUCC DEMANDS

Replenishment of Fish Supply In Lakes Sought

Fearless enforcement of regulations to replenish the supply of commercial fish in the Great Lakes has been requested of the Canadian-American Commission considering the Great Lakes commercial fishing situation by the Michigan United Conservation Clubs.

"It is the belief of the Michigan United Conservation Clubs," states Paul A. Herbert, the President, "that the reduction in the catch of commercial fish in the Great Lakes is due chiefly to over-fishing by commercial fishing. Pollution, erosion, predator fish, sports fishing, etc., have not affected the supply of commercial fish materially. We believe it is the duty of the two governments involved to take fearlessly all steps necessary to replenish the supply so that in future years the catch of commercial fish for public consumption can be maintained at its highest level, which level we believe is considerably above the present catch.

"If unfortunately enough it proves necessary at this time to curtail certain commercial fishing practices so that future generations may also enjoy a bounteous supply of food fish, then we insist that such restrictions be applied even if they temporarily reduce the immediate present income of those engaged in the commercial fishing industry. Such restrictions are for the common good for all time and we are sure they will meet with general public approval.

"If depletion of our Great Lakes fishing continues we consider it prima facie evidence of inefficiency and/or dereliction of duty by the public officials to whom the several governments have entrusted the duty of conserving this important natural resource. Public officials who are unable to solve the problem should voluntarily step aside or be asked to resign so that others may try to do that which they have failed to accomplish. It is only in that way that we can be assured that our Governments are doing their utmost to check the reduction in the catch of commercial fish on the Great Lakes, which in 1918 produced 106,000,000 pounds as compared with about 70,000,000 pounds at this time."

Specific recommendations to conserve food fish supply of the Great Lakes will be made by the commercial fishing committee of the Michigan United Conservation Clubs at their annual convention in Jackson on November 8 and 9. Conservationists throughout the State and the commercial fishing industry are eagerly awaiting the report of that committee and the action that the convention will take on the various proposals submitted.

Candy Haul Is Made; Kids Are Suspected

Some kids were probably getting their fill of candy yesterday, police theorized, after R. J. Lee of 806 South Fourteenth street, a salesman, had reported that his car had been broken into and that seven boxes of candy had been taken. Most of it was penny goods.

The car was kept in a garage in the 1400 block Seventh avenue south. A ventilator window had been pried open to gain access to the car. More valuable articles were not taken. Mr. Lee said that he has had several such thefts, but that the car had never been broken into before.

Communication

1916 — 1940

"16,500,000 register for draft;" "Three thousand wave farewell to National Guard." Thus read the headlines of the Press. Once again America is arming for war. Once again the emotions of the American citizen are being keyed up to make the supreme sacrifice for their country.

Today, as in 1916 America is in the throes of a political campaign. Today as in 1916 the president of the United States assures the people that there is no thought of going to war. President Roosevelt assures the nation that the armed forces of the nation are being mobilized for peace. The cry is for peace, when there is no peace.

Some of us have lived too long to take stock in the president's assurance that the armed forces of the nation are being mobilized for peace. We have lived too long to believe that peace is the ultimate purpose of the peace time draft. We remember the slogan of the 1916 political campaign "He kept us out of war." We know that there is documentary proof that even while the candidate of 1916 was uttering those words, he had committed himself to war. We know that there were secret alliences with the allies. And we are not assured by the present candidate's honeyed words about peace that there are not now secret agreements pledging armed support to the embattled British Empire.

How can we believe otherwise? Time and again we read statements by prominent men who are engaged in the allied cause, which lead us to believe that they are assured that if Mr. Roosevelt is elected this nation of ours will be plunged into war. We read such statements as that made by G. Howard Ferguson, Canadian high commissioner in London "If President Roosevelt is re-elected for a third term, the United States will be in the war before Christmas."

If any of us were undecided as to how and for whom we should cast our ballot on November 5th, waving farewell to our boys of the National Guard should have decided us upon this fact, that we will vote for no man who will jeopardize the lives of those boys, and bring greater sorrow to the hearts of mothers and fathers, than the parting with their boys brought them. While the band played "God Bless America," I saw one mother, being helped to her car, so overcome by sorrow that she was unable to walk. The hot tears were burning her rugged and sorrow stricken face. What will be that mother's experience should her boy be "Lost somewhere in Europe?"

"He kept us out of war." Such was the cry in 1916. And the hope and faith of a hundred million people were betrayed by that false slogan. Are we today going to be duped by another slogan just as false that "We are mobilizing our armed forces for peace." As for me, I would rather trust a man in the White House, who has no secret agreements with Europe, than have faith in a man who for more than a year has made statements and committed acts which provoke to war. I would rather trust Wendell Willkie than Franklin D. Roosevelt.

—Karl J. Hammar.

Clyde Hartwick Held for Damage; Three Dismissed

Clyde Hartwick of near Nahma was bound to the circuit court late yesterday on a charge of malicious property damage at the close of a second day of testimony before Justice of the Peace George W. Carr.

Bond of $500 was not furnished and he was sent to the county jail.

Three other defendants on the same charge were dismissed. All were arrested in connection with damage to an airplane owned by Ellsworth "Mag" Ranguette of Nahma Junction, the night of September 27. All had demanded examinations on the charge.

Those dismissed are Ray Hartwick, Eugene Groleau and Eugene Nadeau of the Nahma vicinity. State police made the arrest on complaints signed by Ranguette, who said the plane was damaged to the extent of $700 when three carloads of merrymakers visited the hangar following a tavern party.

BY FREDERICK GARDNER

New York, Oct. 25 (AP)—Buying of air transports, steels and specialties steadied a shaky stock market today after an extension of Thursday's decline in early dealings.

Selling, fairly active at the start, soon dried up and losses running to a point or so were subsequently reduced or transformed into gains of as much. Minus and plus signs were about even at the close.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was unchanged at 44.6 and was only .1 under where it finished last Saturday. Transfers of 518,660 shares compared with 538,770 the day before.

Continuance of pleasing business prospects, brokers said, was offset to some extent by renewal of tax doubts, lack of definite Wall Street conclusions regarding the national election campaign and further confusing news on foreign affairs.

Among the day's share gainers were American Airlines, United Air Lines, Eastern Air Lines, Pan American Airways, Trans-Continental & Western Air, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Crucible Steel, U. S. Rubber, Sperry, Great Northern, Santa Fe, J. C. Penney, American Smelting, Du Pont and Allied Chemical.

Losers included Sears Roebuck, American Telephone, Douglas Aircraft, Loft, America-Hawaiian Steamship, Anaconda, Kennecott, Westinghouse, Air Reduction, Johns-Manville, Eastman Kodak, Union Carbide and Texas Corp.

General Motors and Chrysler ended where they left off in the preceding session, although Ward's reported this week's automotive output was at the third highest weekly rate since 1937. The latest estimate was 117,080 units, versus 114,672 last week and 78,210 a year ago. Chrysler was unresponsive to the concern's earnings statement and dividend declaration.

Forecasts of climbing traffic for passenger carrying plane companies, combined with the thought profits in this field would be little effected by excess tax charges, aided the transport shares.

Probability steel mill operations next week would hold around current levels and that facilities were sufficient to take care of all defense and private orders, if the latter were placed for actual needs instead of speculative purposes, helped the metals to come back.

Moderate advances in the curb were posted for Jones & Laughlin, Cities Service, Humble Oil, Niagara Hudson Power and senior shares of Puget Sound Power & Light. On the offside were American Cyanamid "B," Brewster Aero and Lake Shore.

CHICAGO GRAIN

Chicago, Oct. 25 (AP)—Continuation of the downward reaction of wheat prices from the season's highs was short lived today, losses of ½ to 3-4 cent a bushel being recovered.

Profit-taking, which accounted largely for the early decline, dried up in final dealings and renewed quiet buying, some of which was credited to mills who were attracted by the earlier decline, restored quotations t around yesterday's close. Final prices were unchanged to ¼ off.

Pit brokers said some of the late buying probably was inspired by a steadier tone in the stock market, complaints of dry soil conditions in parts of the hard winter wheat belt and revival of peace talk in Europe.

Corn closed 3-8 to ½ lower; oats unchanged to 1-8 up; soybeans unchanged; rye 3-8 to ½ lower and lard unchanged to 5 lower.

Newberry

Child Guidance Study Under Way

Newberry — Three research workers from the Michigan child's guidance institute, Ann Arbor, will be here for the next month to study Luce county children suffering from emotional, social or acedemic problems.

Working with a local committee representing the schools, probate court, welfare department, and the state hospital, the research workers have already begun a detailed study of problem children in Luce county. At least six children will be studied, according to present plans.

J. W. Goodrich, Miss Elizabeth Pfeiffers, and Mrs. Ellen Forsyth, all of whom represent the childs guidance institute, are employed on the project. Dr. E. H. Campbell, superintendent of the Newberry state hospital, is chairman of the local assisting committee, composed of Mrs. Cora Sherman of the social welfare department of Luce county, Judge John E. Quinlan of the probate court, and C. L. Bystrom, superintendent of McMillan township schools.

Cancer Specialist Visits Luce County

Newberry—Dr. Frank H. Power of Ann Arbor, a consultant in cancer, has been spending the week in the Luce-Mackinac district it was reported at the Newberry district health office.

Dr. Power was here for the purpose of gathering data in this area and worked with both the physicians and organizations in this matter.

A professor in the department of surgery at the University of Michigan medical school, Dr. Power is also the field consultant for the State Medical society cancer committee, and the Michigan department of health. He was expecting to return to Ann Arbor on October 25.

● SERIAL STORY

NEW YORK JUNGLE

BY WRAY WADE SEVERN

COPYRIGHT, 1940, NEA SERVICE, INC.

YESTERDAY: Barkes advances two theories: Marta is an experienced actress, may have killed Adam, faked a faint; or Togi, embittered by being cut out of Adam's new will, may have shot Langdon. Braitwood discounts both, advises the chauffeur to keep quiet. The attorney goes to the Jungle, is surprised when Gundrum enters noiselessly. Pat rushes in. Nella has disappeared.

* * *

LESENCOFF SAVES A LIFE
CHAPTER XVI

Surely nothing serious could have happened to Nella. Probably she had gone for a walk in the woods to regain her self-control. So reasoned Braitwood, as he made anxious way along a narrow path that pierced the grove east of the house.

"Nella!" he called. "Nella!"

When she did not reply his apprehension increased. He thought of the dream she had related to them the previous night, of the faint which had mercifully spared her from more of Murphy's questions ,and of her undeniable neurotic inheritance.

Then he recalled that she loved the orchard and directed his steps there. The fruit trees, thickened and colored with promised abundance, held no hint of tragedy. Braitwood heard a crow whirr overhead and the distant murmur of the stream at the end of the estate.

"Nella!" He repeated the call. "Oh, Nella!"

Perhaps she had gone for a swim. Nothing like cold water to restore one to normalcy. He hurried toward the natural swimming pool at the southern boundary of the property. Screened by a growth of young birches and fed by the stream, the pool was visible from a small stone bridge which spanned a side road that joined the state highway. Suddenly Sidney's feet took startled root. Impossible not to recognize the tall figure staring intently into the water.

Boris Lesencoff stood on the rail, arms extended for a dive. He had flung his coat on the bridge, but he was otherwise fully clothed. Immediately he became a streak in the air.

* * *

Only a few bubbles marked the spot where Lesencoff had gone under. In an instant a dark head appeared; a shoulder flashed white; a powerful arm struck out; the other arm appeared, holding Nella Langdon's limp form. The pool was not wide. A few strokes and the Russian made bank.

Sidney took the girl from him and laid her, face down, on the grass. "We must get the water out of her lungs," he said.

"She had hardly gone under when I caught her," Lesencoff told him. Kneeling beside the unconscious girl, he helped Braitwood administer first aid.

"What did you see?" Sidney asked, his hands moving rhythmically against Nella's sides.

The director shook the water out of his hair. "It is something I cannot understand. She walked deliberately into the water, gazing straight before her. When she got beyond her depth, she sank. It looked deliberate. Then I dived."

"She acted oddly last night, Lesencoff," Sidney explained. "She had had a terrible shock. Did you know that Adam Langdon had been murdered?"

Lesencoff inclined his head. "Such news travels quickly," he said. "The milkman brought it from the Langdon Knoll kitchen to George Wilkinson's door this morning. I'm staying with the Wilkinsons this week." He hesitated before adding. "Can it be possible she knows more about the murder than she has told?"

* * *

Sidney's eyes warned him to be less personal. Nella exhibited signs of returning consciousness. A shudder passed through her slender form and a faint breathing had begun to trouble her lungs.

"I came over as soon as I had breakfast," the director went on. "I hope I may be of service to Marta. She will need all her friends."

"There is little you can do except leave condolences for the family," Sidney replied. "Langdon surprised me when we arrived by announcing his marriage to Patricia Bridges. Did you know of that, too?"

"Married to Patricia Bridges! Impossible!" Lesencoff exclaimed. "I understood there was a wife, but naturally I supposed her to be Marta."

"Well—it was otherwise," Sidney said.

"So!" Lesencoff took a moment to digest the news. "All was amiable, no doubt?" he questioned.

"All was decorous," Sidney amended.

For an instant the Russian did not speak. Finally, after a quick glance to see if the girl were sufficiently conscious to hear him, he said. "Had I been present, I might have shot Langdon myself. You didn't do it, did you, Braitwood?"

"No, although I almost wanted to," Sidney replied. "Doubtless you, yourself, have an alibi, Boris?"

"Ironclad, now that I consider." Lesencoff's glance had fastened on Nella's head. "The girl has a bruise behind her ear. It is not fresh. Did you notice it?" he asked.

Sidney examined a small, discolored spot, plainly visible through the damp, streaked hair.

"I wonder how she got that?" he muttered.

Lesencoff shrugged sadly. "We have given her another chance at life—for what it may be worth," he said. "At her age happiness should still be possible. You must talk with her, Braitwood. You knew her father."

"I mean to," Sidney promised. "Shall we assume that she slipped and fell into the pool when we give an account of the 'accident'?"

"Certainly she slipped. I saw her do it," Lesencoff agreed. "As for Marta, I shall see her publicity agent at once and give matters as favorable an interpretation as possible. Greatness is in her. This sorrow should broaden her art."

* * *

Sidney gazed thoughtfully at Lesencoff's broad shoulders and well-poised head. The director had expressed no regret for Adam's death. He had always hated Langdon and now he thought only in terms of Marta's suffering and the possible effect the tragedy might have on her future.

Yet, in spite of Marta's denial, Sidney knew that he loved her, and that she had had to make a choice between him and Adam Langdon. He insisted that he had an ironclad alibi. Braitwood hoped he was right.

They carried Nella back to the house and sent for a local doctor. Though she seemed conscious she did not speak, nor could she be induced to do so.

"That blow on her head may be responsible," the doctor told them. "Time will determine if it is. But the trouble may be a psychosis, due to shock."

He suggested a nurse. Pat, however, decided that they had best share the nursing between them.

Though no word was spoken, all agreed that if Nella had anything to say when she became herself again, it might be better for the family to learn of it first.

Jessye Choir Thrills Audience at Concert

Music and rhythm, which are inherent in the negro race, were given their full expression in last evening's concert presented by the Eva Jessye Choir at William W. Oliver Memorial Auditorium, the opening offering of the National Concert League series.

The choir, whose members are aptly described as "dramatists of negro music," gave its audience solo voices of breath-taking beauty and purity of tone, stirring chorus work, effective pantomime and with these, the dynamic direction of Miss Jessye and the flawless accompaniment of Robert Nolan.

The first half of the program was devoted to the spirituals, true music of the negro, with their story of pathos, resignation, petition, or jubilant ecstasy.

In this group were William Grant Still's "I Heard From Heaven Today," and "I Belong to That Band," two Harl Bron numbers, "Hail the Crown," and "Wish I'se in Heab'm Settin' Down," "Plenty Good Room," "Carry the Key," "Tall Angel at the Bar," which the rhythm was as insistent as the repeated musical phrase; and "Dry Bones," which was repeated in response to continued applause.

There were two numbers by the male choir, "Rock My Soul," and "Honor, Honor," the deeply moving "Singing With a Sword in My Hand," with its dramatic solo, and the final selections, the favorite, "Shadrack, Meshack, Abednego," and "The Old Ship of Zion."

The second division of the concert was varied. It opened with "Memphis Blues," followed by a song of the Texas Panhandle, "All I Got Done Gone," the spirited "E-I-O," and "Labor Plaint," and three songs of the legendary 'John Henry."

Director's Arrangement

Miss Jessye's own arrangement of "Shortenin' Bread," "The Strawberry Woman" from George Gershwin's "Porgy and Bess," and "Somertime," also from "Porgy and Bess," were liked immensely by the audience, and these numbers also were repeated. The amusing choral and narrative, Simon, the fisherman who would fish on Sunday, was followed by the familiar "Waterboy," and a deeply moving interpretation of Stephen Foster's "Old Black Joe."

A dramatic climax was given the program in Miss Jessye's selection of the closing encore, "Ballad for America," the modern composition which is taking its place among the best of typical American compositions.

Fine Program Opens Year for Washington P-T

The first meeting of the Washington P. T. A. on Tuesday lived up to expectations both in quantity and quality. The capacity crowd of mothers and friends present agreed that it was well worth the time spent to attend. It is planned that every meeting be just as interesting.

The sixth grade group, led by Miss Gertrude Lund, sang "Home, Sweet Home" in a very pleasing manner. Miss Lund spoke a few words of explanation about the the fine radio victrola which now rotates among the grade schools, giving the boys and girls of Escanaba an opportunity to hear and love the finest of music.

Citizenship Topic

Mrs. Frank Sheedlo gave an excellent talk on "Citizenship Training in the Home," touching on the problems met by every mother and father, pointing out that systematic training and example in the earliest years form the real background of responsible citizenship. Miss Lorene Whaley, fifth grade teacher, spoke on "Citizenship Training in the School," showing how the school has the same aims as the home and continues the development of right habits and attitudes in the new school environment. Several examples of school activities encouraging good citizenship were displayed and described. Miss Mary Meighen, elementary supervisor, concluded the series of talks with many practical and helpful examples and comments on "The School and Home Working Together." Time did not permit the round-table discussion as planned, but it may be held at some future meeting.

Dr. Howard A. Johnson, as a representative of the American Dental Association in Escanaba, informed the group concerning Proposal No. 4 which will be voted on at the coming election.

The mothers seemed quite pleased with the plan of visiting the individual rooms and teachers preceding the meeting. It gave them an opportunity to confer with the teachers, to see what work was going in the rooms, and to become acquainted with one another. Refreshments were served.

A brief and well-planned business meeting, conducted by the president, Miss Mabel Bowers, concluded the afternoon session.

WE, the WOMEN

BY RUTH MILLETT

Like many of her sisters, it seems Ann Sheridan has put too high a value on oomph.

The girl with the curves and the press-agent-bestowed title of "oomph girl" demanded of her studio what she thought so much oomph was worth. The studio didn't think it was worth that much. So Miss Sheridan was suspended, and took her oomph on a vacation—without pay.

Other girls than movie stars often find that they have overvalued oomph, thinking that if they have it they don't need anything else.

In time they learn—though often too late—that oomph is a fine thing for a girl to have, but it has to be supported by other less fleeting qualities, if a girl is to keep her charm for years.

Oomph may—and usually does—get a girl a husband. But oomph alone doesn't hold him.

OOMPH MUST BE BOLSTERED

In marriage, or any other lasting human relationship, oomph or sex appeal or whatever you choose to call it, has to be bolstered by other things.

To keep the man her oomph wins for her, a girl has to develop other qualities.

Tact is one. It's an absolute essential in smoothing out difficulties that arise in day to day living.

The ability to be a good companion is another.

And there's nothing more needed to hold a marriage together than the ability of the wife really to understand her husband and what he wants out of life. That takes perception, and it takes a bit of unselfishness, too.

And, of course, a girl has to develop her aptitude for housekeeping.

When she counts on oomph and nothing else to get her through life, a girl is over-estimating its value. It won't take her long to learn her mistake.

Agricultural Committee of Bureau Recommends $750 Expenditure

The Agriculture committee of the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau, which met here Thursday in conjunction with the Upper Peninsula Potato Show, adopted a resolution recommending that the bureau, at its next annual meeting, appropriate $750 for the advancement of the potato industry in the peninsula, John P. Norton, of Escanaba, committee chairman, announced at the banquet which climaxed the U. P. Potato Show Thursday evening.

The committee, in its resolution, recommended that the bureau set aside $500 to be added to the prizes for the potato show, and that an additional $250 be used for more adequate publicizing of the potato industry in this district.

The announcement was received with enthusiastic acclaim by the potato growers and others who attended the banquet Thursday.

The resolution adopted by the agricultural committee of the bureau follows:

"The Agricultural committee of the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau submits the following report:

"We believe that the Upper Peninsula has successfully passed its preliminary testing period in potato culture, and has proved itself well adapted to high grade potato growing on a large scale.

"We recommend, in view of the fine leadership of the Upper Peninsula Potato association, the railroads of the district, and Michigan State college, and inasmuch as the funds available for association use as prizes are limited, due primarily to the inability of the various county boards to appropriate the former degree of financial help,

"That the sum of $500 be set aside by the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau to be used as prizes, in addition to the amount given by the association for that purpose.

"We further recommend that, whereas the returns to our potato farmers, including those following recommended practices closely, must be restricted by the demand for their products,

"That the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau set aside an additional $250 for the more adequate publicizing of the potato industry in this district, including the preparation of exhibit material to be used in such manner as will best stimulate the demand for Upper Peninsula potatoes."

B. & P. F. Club

The Business and Professional Women's club met Wednesday evening with Mrs. Ada Watson at the Cal Steven cottage on Indian Lake.

Mrs. Martha Cool presented a very interesting program on how to detect propaganda. Mrs. Cool discussed the following seven points: the name calling detection, the glittering generalities, the transfer, the testimonial, the plain folks, the card stacking and the band wagon.

Crew Is Needed Today For Work At The Ski Hill

Weather permitting, the work of setting the long poles and preparing the scaffold for the ski slide will be done today starting at 11 o'clock, with the Girvin shovel assisting the crew of volunteers in the work.

All men interested in the promotion of winter sports who are available today are urged to participate in the work program.

A number of men will be needed at 11 o'clock to aid in fastening the chains to drag the poles to the top of the hill. Later the shovel will remove some trees to open a sand pit to fill in the bottom of the ski hill.

The work was planned for last Saturday but was postponed because of inclement weather.

Another "bee" is scheduled for Sunday when the swamping crew blazes ski trails. An evening campfire steak roast is planned, with each person bringing his own steak.

They were arraigned before Justice of the Peace Ranguette in Escanaba.

Officers caught the two young men in the act of skinning a doe.

Arch Adrian and his band has been procured to play the musical program.

Dancing will begin at 9:30 o'clock and continue until 1:30.

Club membership has been divided into two teams and a keenly contested battle has been going on for the honor of winning ticket selling honors.

Members of the winning team will be entertained at a dinner by members of the losing team. At the present time Bill Brown's team is leading Walter Johnson's aggregation, it is reported, but by a narrow margin.

Annual Drive for Funds To Be Conducted Today

The annual Tag Day of the Child's Welfare club is to be held here today.

Gladstone, both business and residential sections, will be canvassed thoroughly and a group of workers will also visit Rapid River during the day.

Money derived from the drive, the only public solicitation of funds made each year by the club, will be used for the purchase of milk for pre-school children.

A group of young ladies and high school girls will assist the committee in charge in the canvass. Olson and Hanson's store will be the headquarters and all workers will report promptly at 9 o'clock.

Word has been received here of the illness of Leonard Nylund, son of Mr. and Mrs. Axel Nylund of this city, who is confined to the hospital at Ardsley, Pennsylvania, with bronchial pneumonia. He has been making his home there for the past several years with his sister, Mrs. Harold Carlson.

Marinette Gridders Meet Eskymos Here Today

MARINES HAVE TOUGH OUTFIT

Game Starts At 2:15; Reserves Meet In Preliminary

Escanaba high school football team's chance of completing two successive undefeated seasons will meet its toughest test of the year at the athletic field here this afternoon at 2:15 o'clock when it meets a Marinette high school team that generally is considered the strongest team in this part of the country.

The Marines, coached by Harry Anderle, come here today with a brilliant record of five victories, including among their victims such formidable teams as Green Bay West, Kingsford and Norway. Anderle has a veteran crew, one that is extremely rangy and aggressive. It charges fast and hard both on offense and defense.

The Marinette attack is extremely dangerous in all phases. The visitors have a crack passer in Bill Dufresne, a hard charging line plunger in Blain Schachzenski and the speedy end running of Jack Hasenfus, The Man with the Mask. These three boys are very versatile, their talents not being confined to any one achievement. The Marinette line, though lighter than Iron Mountain's, is much faster and more aggressive.

Coach George Ruwitch, while admitting that his boys have done much better this season than he had expected before the season began, frankly is worried about today's game. He has sensed a natural letdown after the Iron Mountain victory of last week and is afraid his boys "just won't have it" out there today. He feels that, if they are right, they have at least an even chance of stopping the fast traveling Marinette team, but, if they are not up to their peak, they will find themselves on the short end of the scoring.

Marinette Band Here

Ruwitch refused last night, for the first time this season, to announce a starting lineup. He said the starting team will depend entirely upon the mental attitude of the individual players by game time today. However, his selections will come from the following: ends, Chouinard, Goymerac, Bliss and Baum; tackles, Scott, Shomin, Larsen and Breault; guards, Aschinger, Flanagan, Kozar and St. Martin; centers, McDonald and Bartley; and backs, Gauthier, Donnie and Bob Pfotenhauer, Peterson, Craig, Grabowski, Kositzke, Dufresne and Prevost.

A full program has been arranged for the afternoon with Coach Jim Rouman's reserves meeting the Marinette seconds in a preliminary game starting at 12:45 o'clock.

The crack Marinette high school band will perform before the game and between halves as will the Escanaba band. Marinette is the third school to send its band here this year, Sault Ste. Marie and Iron Mountain previously having appeared.

Officials will be Earl Rich and Eddie Chambers of Crystal Falls and Eli Enger of Kingsford.

MARINES PRIMED

Marinette, Oct. 25 — Marinette high school gridders facing two of the toughest foes on this season's slate, were scheduled to run through fairly light workouts today and Friday in preparation for the first of the two clashes Saturday when they travel to meet the undefeated Escanaba Eskymos.

Meeting Escanaba Saturday, the Marines on the following Tuesday will journey to Antigo for a night game, the final listed on the 1940 schedule before the annual Menominee classic.

Have Powerful Team

Of the two opponents, the Eskymos on paper rate the toughest and a victory in this clash—barring the Menominee game—would make the season a huge success as far as Coach Harry Anderle and his charges are concerned.

The Eskymos are now riding the crest of an 18-game winning streak, one of the longest in Upper Peninsula grid history. Five of the victories have been posted by this season's team, an aggregation which is now well on its way to repeat as U. P. champion.

Against this powerful array of talent, Coach Anderle will pit a determined lot of players who last week tripped West Green Bay, 7-3. Since athletic relationships were re-opened by the schools in 1934 the Marines and Eskymos have met four times and on all four occasions Escanaba came out on the long end of that string. The closest the Marines came to upsetting the Eskymos in these contests was in 1937 when they bowed, 7-6.

Only light workouts were held thus far this week by Coach Anderle to guard against possible injury to his regulars. Of the first string squad only Bob Detemple, injured in the West game last week, is not expected to see action.

SPILLING the DOPE

BY JOHNNY INKSLINGER

THERE'S NO DOUBT after last week's predictions that the perpetrator of this dope is a first class expert . . . we had the remarkable record of .500, losing seven out of 14 . . . two of the losses were games that ended in ties . . . and we've got to quit this practice of predicting Friday night and Sunday games . . . we missed on all three of them last week . . . but it doesn't seem likely that this c_n keep up . . . so read 'em and weep.

Here Are Today's Top Gridiron Selections

BY BILL BONI

Ithaca, N. Y., Oct. 25 (AP)—In such a steamed-up seat of higher education as this is on the eve of the Cornell-Ohio State game, it's a bit difficult to peer around the "Hello, Ohio" and "I Yell Cornell" banners and realize that other football teams will be settling their differences elsewhere tomorrow afternoon.

Undoubtedly they will, however. Even here there have been rumors of battles such as those sending unbeaten-united Michigan against unbeaten-untied Pennsylvania (or it is Tommy Harmon against Frank Reagan) and Stanford and its new-found Rose-Bowl hopes against Southern California.

These two games should dominate the day's proceedings from an attendance standpoint. Some 60,000 customers are expected to jam their way into Michigan's saucer, while at Palo Alto, Calif., they are counting on another crowd to watch Clark Shaughnessy deploy his Hipper-Dipper Indians against Howard Jones' Trojans.

Here at Ithaca the prospect of seeing Ohio State try to gain revenge for last year's defeat has had Schoellkopf Field sold out for a month. That means only 33,400 customers at best—but that comparatively small figure already is 3,000 more than they ever had.

However, the business at hand is to go down the line naming this corner's selections. Here we go (probable attendances in parentheses, home teams named first):

Michigan-Penn (60,000): Since there appears little to choose in the Harmon - Reagan individual battle, the supporting casts become important. On that basis, this vote goes to Michigan.

Stanford - Southern California (60,000): By now Stanford has won too many games for it to be regarded as a fluke. This is the mid-season climax. Figuring it will be primed, Stanford.

Cornell-Ohio State (33,400): The Buckeyes have a stout pass defense and possibly the toughest line Cornell has faced, but Cornell can move the ball in every way except possibly under water, and there appears no logical reason to desert them now. Cornell, in what may be a free-scoring jamboree.

Texas Aggies-Baylor (21,000): The Aggies keep rolling.

Tennesee-Florida (15,000): Ditto Tennessee.

Minnesota-Iowa (64,000): Without throwing a single pass, the Gophers were inside the Ohio State 20 seven times last week. Sounds sufficient. Minnesota.

Northwestern-Indiana (37,000): A great spot for an upset if De Correvont doesn't play. Still, Northwestern.

Arkansas-Mississippi (12,000): Ole' Miss'. Looks like they've really got it.

Columbia - Syracuse (27,000): Columbia, which can do more with 14 men than many others with 40.

Georgia Tech-Auburn (20,000): Georgia appears to have a defensive edge.

Washington-California (25,000): The Huskies got over that Minnesota defeat in a hurry. Washington.

New York U.-Georgetown (15,000): No. 21 without a loss for Georgetown.

Nebraska-Missouri (36,000): Nebraska.

Rice-Texas (28,000): In rating the country's better teams, don't overlook the Longhorns. Texas.

Louisiana State-Vanderbilt (25,000): Anybody's ball game. Taking Vandy.

Yale-Navy (40,000): Navy to keep winning.

Fordham-St. Mary's (40,000): Fordham to do the same.

Army - Lafayette (10,000): No great surprise either way. Lafayette.

North Carolina-Tulane (20,000): A stab in the dark, Carolina.

Michigan State-Santa Clara (15,000): Santa Clara, if it can throttle those Spartan passes.

Illinois-Notre Dame (60,000): Almost overlooked this one, but the Irish won't. Notre Dame.

Harvard - Dartmouth (30,000): Shades of yesteryear; Harvard.

Princeton-Rutgers (28,000): Taking Princeton, but ready to duck.

Wake Forest - Duke (20,000): Duke.

Iowa State-Oklahoma (12,000): Oklahoma.

Washington State - Oregon (5,000): Washington State, which can score.

U. C. L. A.-Oregon State (50,000): The UCLANS, who have lost four games by a combined margin of 15 points.

Purdue-Wisconsin (20,000): A toss-up. Purdue.

Here'n' there, elsewhere:

East: Boston college over St. Anselm; Holy Cross over Brown; Colgate over Mississippi college; Penn State over Temple; Catholic U. over West Virginia Wesleyan; Villanova over Detroit (Sunday).

Midwest: Texas Tech over Marquette; Kansas State over Kansas.

South: Mississippi State over North Carolina State; Davidson over Furman; Virginia Military over Richmond; Washington and Lee over Virginia Tech; William and Mary over Virginia.

Southwest and Far West: Texas Christian over Tulsa; Colorado over Wyoming.

STRONG RIVALS IN BIG BATTLE

St. Joe Crippled Somewhat for Annual Game With Braves

Crippled by the loss of LeRoy Baker, regular right half, and injury to Joe Young, speedy left half, St. Joseph high school gridders go to Gladstone today to meet the Braves in one of their most important games of the season.

Coach Carl Kant said yesterday that Young, injured in the Crystal Falls game last week, will be able to play today but just how long depends entirely upon how his injured ankle stands up under the strain.

Baker's position probably will be handled by his brother, Jim, who has been moved back from his end post to the right half spot.

Kant said yesterday that he probably will have to make numerous substitutions in order to relieve the strain on his crippled crew.

The locals are looking for a tough battle from the Keilmen, who got a taste of victory last week in upsetting a classy Ishpeming team and who are seeking revenge for last year's victory of St. Joseph. Furthermore, Coach Eldon Keil is assisted this year by Leo Brunelle, former St. Joe coach, who is very familiar with the St. Joseph game and Gladstone will know just what to expect.

BEST OF THE DAY

Gladstone, Mich. — Gladstone and St. Joseph high school football elevens are scheduled to clash at Marble Athletic Field here this afternoon in what has all the earmarks of the best game on the peninsula schedule for the day.

Originally a home date for the Parochials, the game was later arranged as a dual or jointly sponsored event, when it was found that the Escanaba gridiron was already booked for that day.

Stories emanating from Escanaba relative to injuries of St. Joseph players are suspected of being the "bear" variety and being taken here with a grain of salt.

Preparations were carried out just as if the Parochial team with its star backs, Baker and Young, was intact and it is expected that it will be when it takes the gridiron here today.

In the starting lineup for the Keilmen will be D'Amour and Dahl, ends, Strom and Lund, tackles; Marble and Olson, guards; R. Olson, center; Corbett, quarterback; Gillis and Olson, halfbacks; and Peterson, fullback.

Baldwin, Puckelwartz and Bartels of Escanaba will handle the game.

TODAY MAY BE PENN'S PAYOFF

Law of Averages Gives Team Chance Against Wolverines

BY WATSON SPOELSTRA

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 25 (AP)—Fidgety George Munger's Pennsylvania football team has been getting progressively better against Michigan, so tomorrow may be the day when he cashes in after losing two games to the Wolverines by narrow margins.

The 31-year-old Munger, arriving here for tomorrow's clash between the unbeaten forces of Penn and Michigan, said he couldn't possibly see how under the law of averages his Quakers could lose another tough one to Michigan.

In 1938, Munger's first season in big-time football, Michigan outmaneuvered Penn to win, 19 to 13. Last year the Wolverines squeezed through a 19 to 17 thriller. These successes enabled Michigan to square the 41-year-old intersectional series at eight victories each and two ties.

The Penn squad, working out today in the Michigan stadium, was reported in excellent physical condition save for Walter Runte, alternate right tackle, and Herbert Nelson, reserve end, both injured in the game against Yale. Munger said his starting lineup would be unchanged.

Dry Field Promised

Coach Herb (Fritz) Crisler of Michigan said at the final practice for his team that he would start the eleven players who crushed Illinois last week with two touchdowns in the first period.

With little Dave Nelson at the wingback position, All - America Tom Harmon will be lined up for an individual scoring duel with Francis Reagan, Penn's triple-threat wizard. Each will be at tailback in single wingback formation for punting, passing and running duties. On defense, each will play the safety position.

If Reagan tosses forward passes against Michigan as he did last year, when he completed 14 aerials for 188 yards, Harmon may be called up for a secondary defensive assignment, and Paul Kromer, comeback-bound veteran, will substitute for Nelson to run back punts. Kromer is Michigan's best punter.

As the weatherman promised a dry field with the temperature in the 50's, the crowd may top 60,000.

Probable lineups:

Penn	Pos.	Michigan
Kuczynski	LE	Rogers
Engler	LT	Wistert
Mendelson	LG	Sukup
Frick	C	Ingalls
Brechka	RG	Fritz
Yard	RT	Kelto
Warner	RE	Frutig
Davis	QB	Evashevski
Reagan	RH	Harmon
Dutcher	RH	Nelson
Allen	FB	Westfall

Today's Sport Parade

by HENRY McLEMORE

United Press Staff Correspondent

Detroit, Oct. 25 (UP)—When I had tea with Millard Fillmore in 1856 and discussed the platform of the know-nothing party, I never dreamed I would live to see the day when two football players would chase the presidential candidates of the two major political parties out of the public mind.

Probably neither Mr. Roosevelt nor Mr. Willkie would admit it, but until Michigan and Pennsylvania get through with their game here Saturday afternoon the only two names attracting any serious attention are Tommy Harmon and Frank Reagan. You can shout the name of either Roosevelt or Willkie on the busiest corner here in town today without halting a pedestrian, even for a second. But just mention Michigan's great back, Harmon, or Pennsylvania's four-star heller, Reagan, and you'll find yourself surrounded by more articulate arguers than a traffic cop can clear away in an hour.

The excitement over the coming clash between these two great backs, both of whom are being compared to Grange and Thorpe and Harley and Nevers, is not confined to Michigan by any means.

Hank Feels Sorry

Newspaper writers from all over the country are checking in with new typewriters and old adjectives. Every radio announcer without a frog in his throat is already on the spot. There isn't a ticket to be had, and football fans are running back punts and sweeping the ends in every hotel corridor and room in town.

Looking at the game soberly, which few in Detroit are doing, I can't help feeling sorry for Harmon and Reagan. After all they're just boys and what a spot they're in. As a lad of 21 or 22 how would you have felt in the same position they're in today? They are going to face, tomorrow, upwards of 70,000 persons, each of whom will be there looking for miracles. Listening to the radio, and expecting even greater miracles, will be uncounted millions. And on Sunday another vast multitude will pick up the papers to see who was the hero and who was the goat, Harmon or Reagan.

Strain Is Tough

Under such circumstances it will be nothing short of a miracle if the two boys hold on to the ball at all. In a game like this one bobble can make you a bum, one misstep and your reputation is sullied. Under this set-up how would you like to try to catch a hard, quick pass, or handle a drifting punt in a wind, or be responsible for the strategy that meant winning or losing?

I can tell you what would happen to me under those circumstances. My heart would fracture three very important ribs before the kickoff, my stomach would do a swing version of I'll never smile again, and my nervous system would become a medical phenomenon.

When the spotlight hits you as hard as it has Reagan and Harmon, no alibi does you any good. Your teammates may have an off day but no one will notice that and excuse you. You may have an off day yourself, or be suffering from a crippling ailment, but that won't be taken into consideration by the public or the critics.

In short, when you're a Harmon or a Reagan, and the showdown comes, you're either a ball of fire or the fizzled figment of somebody's imagination.

The more I think of the spot they're in, Tommy and Frank, the more I'm glad I stayed at my concertina while the other boys worked out on the parallel bars.

Outstanding Tussles Mark Pigskin Parade

BY GAYLE TALBOT

New York, Oct. 25. (AP)—The outstanding tussle of this football week-end will take place tomorrow afternoon at Ann Arbor, Mich., when the great Tommy Harmon leads all - conquering Michigan against an undefeated and unextended University of Pennsylvania eleven.

With all-America Tommy running rampant, Michigan has gained 116 points to opponents' 14 in scoring four victories, while Penn, sparked by its brilliant Frank Reagan, has accumulated 147 points to 35 for its three victims.

In addition to being a whale of a game in itself, the meeting of the powerful east and midwest rivals promises a thrilling individual duel between Harmon and Reagan.

Only slightly less important to the national ranking will be the long-anticipated return meeting between Ohio State and Cornell in the latter's cozy little stadium at Ithaca. The pair put on one of last season's real dazzlers, with Cornell the victor 23 to 14, and tomorrow's clash should be equally spectacular.

Cornell, with three lopsided victories to its credit this fall, has been rated the nation's top team in the weekly Associated Press poll. Ohio State, beaten on successive week-ends by Northwestern and Minnesota, has fallen somewhat from its usual high estate, but the Buckeyes always are tough.

Jumping from there, the next most important struggle is scheduled down at Waco, Tex., where the powerful Texas Aggies encounter their first dangerous rival for the southwest conference title in the Baylor Bears. Baylor lost an unexpected decision to Arkansas two weeks ago, but still is rated a real threat to the champs.

The Pacific coast's headliner brings together undefeated, untied Stanford and Southern California at Palo Alto, with Stanford favored to score its third conference victory. The Washington Huskies, who promise to fight it out with Stanford for the conference crown, should get safely past California in the section's other big game.

The week's big noise in the Big Six will be the collision between Nebraska and Missouri at Lincoln, with the Nebraska team favored on the strength of its 53 to 2 romp over Kansas last week.

The day brings a temporary lull in hostilities between the south's top teams, the nearest thing to a vital conflict possibly being the Georgia Tech—Auburn meeting at Atlanta. Tennessee, which again looks like the powerhouse of the Southeastern conference, should get little back-talk from Florida. Mississippi tackles a staunch non-conference foe in Arkansas, while Tulane should stay on the victory trail against North Carolina.

Other traditional games in the east are Fordham vs. St. Mary's of California, Columbia vs. Syracuse, Harvard vs. Dartmouth, Yale vs. Navy, Army vs. LaFayette, Princeton vs. Rutgers and N. Y. U. vs. undefeated, untied Georgetown.

Notre Dame's great team should squelch Illinois, while Northwestern and Minnesota have what look like breathers against Indiana and Iowa, respectively. The University of Texas eleven will begin to disclose whether it is as good as its pre-season ballyhoo when it tackles the dangerous Rice Owls at Houston.

SPARTANS HOPE TO FIND A STAR

Santa Clara Pins Their Hopes On Speedy Jimmy Johnson

East Lansing, Oct. 25. (AP)—While the Santa Clara Broncos hitched their invasion hopes to a star named Jimmy Johnson, the Michigan State Spartans clung to the hope that their homecoming football game tomorrow would uncover a star for them.

State college officials estimated about 20,000 would see the renewal of a gridiron series that has yet to produce a Spartan victory. Santa Clara won last year 6 to 0 and the year before 7 to 6.

Wishful thinking in the Spartan camp would have coach Charley Bachman trot out a ball-lugging sensation that is badly needed to balance State's ground play with its productive aerial football.

The supply of backfield material is plentiful, but none of the Spartan ball carriers has proved a consistent threat—something the Spartans need to match offensive strokes with those of the Broncos' famed halfback, Johnson.

Carries Big Load

Although Santa Clara also has a big roster of backs, the injury earlier in the season of Dick Clark, who harassed the Spartans for two years, places a heavy responsibility on the kicking, passing and running abilities of Johnson.

Bachman has predicted that if the weather is fair it will probably "rain footballs" on Macklin Field. The Spartan coach is not worried about his team's passing offensive, with Wyman Davis, Mike Schelb and Dick Kieppe to throw them, and Bob Friedlund, Bill Kennedy and Lew Smiley, all ends, and halfback Walt Pawlowski to catch.

Walter Ball, sophomore halfback, has moved into a first string position and will get a chance to match punts with Johnson. Bachman plans to use quarterback Maro Miller for converting extra points and field goal attempts if the opportunities present themselves.

Coach Buck Shaw and the team from Santa Clara tonight are in Jackson and are scheduled to arrive in East Lansing shortly before noon. The game starts at 2 p. m. (EST).

The probable starting lineups:

SANTA CLARA		MICH. STATE
Thom	LE	Smiley
Braun	LT	Carter
Thornton	LG	Abdo
Stanfel	C	Arena
Poppin	RG	Rupp
Beggs	RT	Karas
Dewing	RE	Friedlund

Johnson	LH	Wy Davis
Heiser	RH	Ball
Hann	FB	Amon

Referee, E. C. Curtiss, Chicago; umpire, Don M. Hamilton, Notre Dame; linesman, Edward W. Cochrane, Kalamazoo; field judge, Ray J. Eichenlaub, Notre Dame.

IN HIGH SPIRITS

Jackson, Mich., Oct. 25, (AP)—Coach Lawrence (Buck) Shaw was neither fearful nor confident as he sent his squad of 35 Santa Clara university football players through their final workout today in preparation for their clash with Michigan State college tomorrow.

"I know Charley Bachman is out to get us because he doesn't think we deserved to beat him the last two years," Shaw said, "but these boys of mine are in high spirits after a two-week rest, and if we can stop State's passing attack we should have a good chance. It's a young team we have, but it is developing every week."

Shaw doesn't rate his squad the equal of either the 1938 or 1939 aggregations, although the present one has slightly more speed and better passing but isn't as heavy.

The prospect of cool weather pleased Shaw, because his Broncos have played a couple of games this fall when it was 90 in the shade.

Manistique Eleven Plays At Munising

Manistique—Determined to get back into the victory column, the Manistique high school football team will travel to Munising today to meet the Alger county prepsters.

The Emeralds gave the rugged Soo team a real battle last Saturday before wilting in the last quarter when the Cranemen chalked up their 18 to 6 triumph.

The Manistique coach sharpened his team's passing attack this week with the thought that the revision in the backfield may cause some loss of power in running plays, a loss which may be offset by a sharp passing attack.

EMERALDS TO PLAY MATHERS

Munising Is Prepared to Give Invaders Hard Battle

Munising, Oct. 25—A revamped, stronger lineup will face the Manistique Emeralds when they invade Munising tomorrow for their tilt with the Mather high school squad. Coach Villemure, with an open date a week ago, has had ample time to experiment with the new changes and predicted that the Mather crew that takes on the Manistique aggregation will have something "on the ball."

The locals are determined to show the Schoolcrafters strong opposition in the battle, the Mathers' last home tilt this year. Manistique has a strong team and has shown it with a 20-2 win over Gladstone, which Munising played to a 6-6 tie. In the trip last week to the Lock City, the Emeralds bowed to the Soo squad by an 18-6 score. Munising lost to the Lock City Blue Devils, 14-0.

Munising will have only one other opponent to face after their game tomorrow. On November 2 they will meet St. Joseph's in Escanaba.

Saturday's game will start at 2 o'clock (CST).

DRAFT QUOTAS TO BE REVISED

Armed Forces Expected to Total 1,900,000 By Next June 15

Washington, Oct. 25. (AP) — A formula by which state governors will compute draft quotas for the 6,500 local selective service boards was prescribed today in regulations issued from the White House.

Last of a series of six volumes covering draft procedure, the regulations were made public as nine girl clerks at national selective headquarters begin filling capsules with the 8,500 numbers which will be drawn at next Tuesday's draft lottery here.

National headquarters already has announced state quotas for the first 800,000 men who will be in camp by next June 15. Based on estimates of each state's available man power, the quotas will be revised, probably November 30, when more positive information becomes available.

The first official example of how the preliminary quotas were figured was given today as follows:

The first step is to determine the percentage of a state's fit and available man power as compared with the fit and available man power of the nation, which is estimated to be 5,000,000 out of the 17,000,000 men registered for compulsory military service. If the state of "Northwest," for example, had 50,000 available men, it would have one-hundredth of the national man power.

It is expected that by June 15 the armed forces will approximate 1,900,000 men, including army, navy, national guard, marine corps, reservists and selective service trainees.

Consequently the state of "Northwest," because it has one-hundredth of the man pawer, will be required to furnish one-hundredth of the 1,900,000 in the armed forces, or 19,000 men.

However, the number of men each state already has in the armed forces will be deducted from its quota.

Grange Splits Action On Four Amendments

BY JACK I. GREEN

Pontiac, Mich., Oct. 25 (AP)—The annual convention of the Michigan State Grange recommended by resolution today a "No" vote Nov. 5 on extending school bond issue periods and the civil service amendment to the state constitution, and endorsed "Yes" votes on referenda placing municipal bus lines under state control and imposing restrictions on dentists' advertising.

The only opposition to those positions, recommended to the convention by the legislative committee, came when Mrs. Dora H. Stockman, East Lansing member of the legislature, fought to obtain rejection of the bus proposal recommendation, which would affect the Detroit street railway buses mainly.

John C. Ketcham, former congressman and committee chairman, said the Grange "has no quarrel with the city of Detroit on how it handles its transportation, but the Grange's long-standing policy has been that the users of the highways should pay for their upkeep."

Ketcham asserted passage of the proposal would force the D. S. R. to pay a fair share of highway upkeep and meet state's safety standards. Outstate taxpayers now "subsidize" the D. S. R., Ketcham said.

Mrs. Stockman argued the D. S. R. maintained 17 miles of highways outside Detroit. She argued that the proposal might affect bus operations between other outstate communities. Stanley M. Powell of Ionia, Grange director, said the 17 miles of pavement existed within the city limits and that 34 of the 57 Wayne county supervisors approved of the proposal. State Rep. Victor A. Knox of Sault Ste. Marie declared rejection of the proposal would be "repudiation" of the legislature which first enacted the proposal.

There was no voice raised against rejection of the civil service amendment. Ketcham said it "obviously is a very drastic step toward concentration of power in the executive office."

The delegates accepted the committee's recommendation that passage of the proposal to extend school bond issues from five to 15 years might lead to "pyramiding" school debts.

The convention opposed a proposal to make the state sales tax a consumers' tax instead of a retailers' tax in order to obtain exemption from federal income tax payments.

It also adopted a compromise resolution which asked the state to "curb unsavoury" practices of roadhouses by restricting liquor licenses in unincorporated areas.

Delegates eased their formerly expressed opposition to sending United States troops outside the country, by adopting a resolution approving the use of troops in defending the western hemisphere. Women members, who obtained passage of the original resolution, fought the shift, but lost to arguments that the United States must defend South America in its own interests.

A resolution was adopted asking the state conservation commission to delay the sale of tax-reverted lands in northern Michigan until the legislature meets and amends the law to "correct injustices."

Sponsored by Knox, the resolution said northern property owners had not had sufficient opportunity to redeem their property. A delegate declared on the floor that representatives of conservation clubs had not been granted a request to appear before the endorsing committee, but the convention acted without hearing them.

Other resolutions adopted:

Asked the legislature to use funds appropriated for the purchase of lands for further reforestation of existing state lands.

Recommended reorganizing the state department of agriculture on a non-partisan basis.

Demanded amendment of the dairy container law to legalize milk sales in gallon containers.

Proposed a uniform state traffic law.

Recommended a law permitting sale of automobile license plates on a rate scaled downward monthly as the license year elapses.

Opposed sale of intoxicants between Saturday midnight and 7 a. m. Monday, and sale of alcoholic drinks in places providing other types of amusement.

Asked regulating of tourist cabins to stamp out "unsavoury" practices of patrons.

Asked restoring of full state payment of tuition for rural pupils in city high schools, or, the requirement that school districts pay such tuition in an amount equal to the primary school allotment for each pupil.

Recommended no increase in the sales tax and the earmarking of an unspecified portion of sales tax revenues for state aid to schools.

Protested the power of the state administrative board to reduce legislative appropriations for school aid.

Asked the executive committee to survey the possibility of taxing mineral royalties paid persons living outside of Michigan, the possibility of taxing mineral "reservations," and the possibility of a luxury tax to finance new schools.

nation has "returned to peaceful pursuits, and asked what was being done by the present administration "to safeguard our population from such an impending economic disaster."

Born In the Briar

Turning from the reasons for his opposition to Roosevelt to the reasons for his supporting Willkie he asserted:

"He is a gallant American. He has opened his heart to the American people. He is not an aristocrat. He has the common touch. He was born in the briar and not to the purple. He has worked with his hands and has known pangs of hunger. He has had experience in various fields of American enterprise, and is an administrator and an executive."

Lewis said some sources had suggested he should not endorse Willkie because the latter's campaign workers were said to include Tom Girdler, president of Republic Steel, Eugene Grace of Bethlehem Steel and Ernest T. Weir of National Steel, with both of whom the C.I.O. has been at bitter odds.

"This is specious reasoning," Lewis continued. "One could as well suggest that the communicants of a particular faith should leave their church because of the presence of a hypocrite in their midst. Aside from this, these gentlemen must possess some virtue, because President Roosevelt has awarded them fat and lucrative government contracts, at the expense of the public purse.

Believes In Willkie

"I may also add, in passing, that it is a reasonable hope that these gentlemen, acting in their corporate capacities, will soon execute collective bargaining contracts with the C.I.O.

Lewis proceeded to a series of laudatory remarks about Willkie. The Republican nominee, he said had asserted:

"x x x That he will put the unemployed to work; that he will abolish pauperism. He has said that he will increase the national income by working to increase the wages and incomes of the unemployed.

"He says that he will enlist the representative brains of the nation to do this job. He says that he will take the representatives of labor into his cabinet and into the policy making agencies of government, to assist and co-operate in the economic rehabilitation of America.

"He has said that he will reduce the cost of operation of our government, and thus reduce the taxes imposed upon individual citizens.

"He has said that he believes in, and will enforce the right of labor to organize and will promote collective bargaining between industry and labor.

"He has said that he will preserve and maintain all social legislation previously enacted for the protection of labor and any other citizen.

"Wendell Willkie has given his guarantee to the American people that if elected president, he will not send the sons of American mothers and American fathers to fight in foreign wars. He avers that he will not use the power and influence of this mammoth nation to promote war, but rather exercise that power and that influence to abate war and promote and maintain peace between nations.

"This statement of principles and objectives entitles Mr. Willkie to the support of every thoughtful citizen.

"Can he accomplish such a task, many will ask. It is my considered judgment that if Wendell Willkie is elected president this task can, and will be done."

DIRECTORS FOLLOW CHIEF

New York, Oct. 25, (AP)—Allan S. Haywood, national organizing director of the CIO, said tonight he and many other CIO officials had assured John L. Lewis, after he announced his support of Wendell L. Willkie, that they "endorse his statement and pledge continued fealty to his leadership."

Haywood said he was joined in his endorsement by Walter S. Medhurst, Peter Mosele, organizing directors, Harold J. Straub, national director of the utility workers organizing committee and members of organizing staffs.

He added he had contacted directors in Buffalo, N. Y., Boston, Philadelphia, Detroit, Wilmington, Del., Newark, N. J., Allentown, Pa., and in Rhode Island and that "all gave assurances that they were with Lewis."

LAKE SHIPPING IS PROTECTED

Various Restrictions Are Placed to Avert Sabotage

Word was received here yesterday that authorities are moving swiftly to protect the Great Lakes' billion-dollar-a-year shipping trade against sabotage with a rigid series of defensive measures which exceed in some cases the elaborate precautions of 1917.

The Lake Carriers' association —representing 350 vessels transporting 85 per cent of the commerce of America's greatest inland waterway—drew up the new restrictions after governmental agencies had requested increased protection to lakes shipping. The action was taken in conjunction with the United States army, the coast guard and dock companies.

Feature of the defense covenant, according to A. T. Wood, president of the association, is the regulation calling for a close inspection of all vessels by ships officers after leaving port and before entering the Sault Ste. Marie or Welland canals.

Must Be Kept Open

"Those two most important links in the lakes system must be kept open at all costs," he said. "A sunken hull in either of the canals would be disastrous."

Wood said ships officers would he held solely responsible for a detailed inspection "of every square foot" of the vessel's interior before traversing either of the canals and before entering any narrows in the lakes system.

Before entering either the Soo or Welland locks vessels will signify that an inspection has been made by raising a square yellow flag with a black ball in the center.

New cautions have been provided in the selection of crew members. Masters are charged with responsibility for the loyalty of their crews to the United States.

Inspect Sailor's Duffle

All parcels brought aboard a vessel—including a sailor's duffle—will be subject to scrutiny by officers.

Previous to unloading a cargo an inspection will be made of the ship, hold and coal bunker to insure against explosives being stowed.

Officers also will keep careful watch over cargo loading.

Preliminary steps to the new defense measures were taken by the coast guard, in what is usually interpreted as a war emergency measure, when port captains were named for all the leading harbors.

Individual shipping companies have taken initiative in their own behalf and the Great Lakes Towing company, in an act believed without precedent on the Great Lakes, has announced a self-imposed censorship on information regarding the movements of lake vessels.

WILLKIE FIRES MORE QUERIES AT ROOSEVELT

build up America," the candidate said people need more food, more houses and more of the products of industry.

Balance Awry

"By all the rules of justice and common sense," he continued, "those who can produce those things should be able to produce them; and those who need them should be able to get them.

"But what is actually happening? We have people on the farms who need the products of industry while 9,000,000 men are out of work and many factories are idle. We have people in the cities who need the products of the farm, and the farmer cannot sell the crops he raises."

Willkie said that undernourished children, "worried, anxious mothers" and fearful heads of families are on the dark side of the national picture.

"In pictures like these," he added, "lie the challenge to our society—the challenge to make that picture brighter."

The nominee contended that the new deal program of social legislation and relief "does not go far enough."

"No program for American recovery," he said, "will ever work unless it is designed to bring about better living conditions and greater security for all our people. That is our program."

The Roosevelt administration, he added, "had created plenty of fights, but no jobs. We want to do away with the fights and create jobs."

BY WILLIAM B. ARDERY

Aboard Willkie Train, Oct. 25 (AP)—Wendell L. Willkie demanded today that President Roosevelt explain why he urged congress to adjourn last June instead of asking it to stay in session to make defense appropriations.

In a series of talks through southern New York, the Republican presidential nominee said the president had "proclaimed that he foresaw the war in Europe."

"Did you hear him preaching to the American people the war is coming, you must defend yourselves?" Willkie asked.

"He said to congress last June, 'Go home, go home. There is no necessity for your being here. I can handle the international situation.'"

"Fortunately for the country," the candidate added, "opposition leaders held congress in session, and additional defense funds thus were appropriated."

At Fordham Game

Willkie addressed crowds in Jamestown, Salamanca, Hornell and Elmira before going late in the afternoon to Binghampton and then to Scranton, Pa.

Willkie announced today he would continue to respond promptly to all of Mr. Roosevelt's campaign addresses. The replies will be made within 24 to 48 hours, he said, depending on the availability of radio time.

After his address in Wilkes-Barre tonight he will go to New York for a heavy Saturday schedule. He will attend the World's fair and the Fordham-St. Mary's football game in the afternoon. He will speak in the evening at the Grover Cleveland high school, Ridgewood, Queens; Jamaica high school, Queens; Technical high school, Brooklyn, and Italian hall, Brooklyn.

It was to determine, he said, just what facilities the automobile industry could make immediately available to speed up the defense program.

DRAFT BOARD A THIRD DONE

1,200 Names Numbered; Charles Bonamer Gets No. 1

The Delta county draft board spent yesterday afternoon shuffling registration cards and numbering cards from 1 to 1,200, where they quit at day's end. They were about one third finished.

The job will be resumed this morning and by tonight the numbering job is expected to be finished, although they are not expected to be listed. Lists will be posted probably Monday, board members said.

Charles Bonamer of Escanaba was reported to have received No. 1 in the list. No. 1, of course, might be the last number to be drawn in the draft. The first lottery will come Tuesday, when capsuled numbers will be drawn from a jar in Washington.
